

CLE Course Description

CSI in the Courtroom: How to Use Technology at Trial

More and more, technology is being used in the courtroom and is often well-received by the bench and jurors. Technology plays a large part in helping both parties understand the facts in complex litigation matters. This presentation will focus on how the use of technology aids in presenting documents, video depositions and other exhibits to the trier of fact. This program will include visual demonstrations of how technology can be used to illustrate different types of documents, information, and critical case themes.

This is a transitional and non-transitional CLE program for 1 CLE Credit hour.
